MANAGER COMMENTARY

Global equity markets continued their strong year-to-date run in April, in the short window between full year reporting season and the advent of a slew of updates on how the first quarter of 2019 has turned out for businesses. Positive noises are coming from a range of industries, and some of the fund's better performers from a share price perspective have been those that were experiencing difficulties during 2018 including the advertising sector and service companies such as Adecco. That said, firms that are performing solidly have also gained e.g. Microsoft, and also businesses that are grasping the nettle of their changing industries such as Disney following the completion of the Fox transaction and the announcement of streaming service Disney+ (how much of the share price rise is to do with the hype around the block-busting Avengers release remains to be seen!). There are signs of an underlying slowdown in certain sectors though, particularly in semiconductors where Intel experienced a weakening of demand for its data centre chips, especially from China. Apple's half year results were also affected by the well-trailed slowing of Chinese demand for iPhones, but an improving trend was cheered by the market along with solid performance in its other segments. Other interesting developments included the announcement of Amazon's foray into the US freight brokerage market, which brings another competitor to portfolio holding C H Robinson. Whilst it's tempting to assume Amazon will steamroller any industry to which it turns its attention, C H Robinson note the very long-standing relationships with customers, the fragmented nature of the freight market, and their own very significant investments in their technology platform as creating barriers to entry.
