MANAGER COMMENTARY

The fund saw a particularly weak performance during the month of October, lagging the benchmark MSCI World index and the sector of comparable global income funds. We very much view equity investing as a long-term endeavour and understand that the fund's differentiated portfolio will lead to periods of over and under-performance. However, in such periods, it is our duty to carefully examine the potential causes.

Individual stock volatility against the market has been unusually high. The headline cause of this is increased market uncertainty from a combination of coronavirus-related lockdowns returning, particularly in Europe, and the US presidential election. This has been compounded by a third quarter results season that has seen dramatic market reactions even to those stocks that have met analyst expectations.

The negative performance of the fund in October has been led by ten companies from a wide range of industries. These include typically defensive stocks, from consumer products to healthcare, and also more cyclical industries, such as media firms and technology. We have carefully reconsidered the investment cases for each of the companies and believe that they remain intact.

Looking at the question through the prism of free cash flow generation, all have created significant free cash this year, and five of the ten are expected to see the figure grow in 2020 despite the pandemic's effects. Taken together, however, these ten companies are likely to see a modest decline in their cash generation compared to last year.

With a projected free cash flow yield of 6% (similar to the fund's overall figure) we feel comfortable with these businesses' ability to withstand a severe downturn, as we have already seen, and to continue to invest for the future. The figure of 6% also points to these businesses currently trading on attractive valuations, comparing favourably to the 4.1% reported for the MSCI World index (source: Factset).

What are the Risks?

As a focused equity portfolio of typically less than 40 investments, the fund can involve higher risk and higher volatility. The value of an investment and the income from it can fall as well as rise as a result of market and currency movement; you may not get back the amount originally invested. You should therefore regard your investment as long term. Details on the risk factors are included in the fund's prospectus, available on our website.

Investor Profile

The Fund may appeal to investors who:

- ✓ Want a high level of income and the prospect of some capital growth
- ✓ Accept the risk associated with the volatile nature of equity investments

This Factsheet has been produced by Evenlode Investment Management Limited. TB Evenlode Global Income is a sub-fund of the TB Evenlode Investment Funds ICVC. Full details of the TB Evenlode Investment Funds, including risk warnings, are published in the TB Evenlode Investment Funds Prospectus, the TB Evenlode Investment Funds Supplementary Information Document (SID) and the TB Evenlode Investment Funds Key Investor Information Documents (KIIDs) which are available on request and at www.evenlodeinvestment.com. The TB Evenlode Investment Funds are subject to normal stock market fluctuations and other risks inherent in such investments. The value of your investment and the income derived from it can go down as well as up, and you may not get back the money you invested, you should therefore regard your investment as long term. As a focused portfolio of typically less than 40 investments, Evenlode Global Income carries more risk than a fund spread over a large number of stocks. The fund has the ability to invest in derivatives for the purposes of EPM, which may restrict gains in a rising market. Investments in overseas equities may be affected by changes in exchange rates, which could cause the value of your investment to increase or diminish.
