MANAGER COMMENTARY

The Evenlode Global Income fund experienced relatively weak market performance in October. During the month the broader market (as measured by the MSCI World Index) rallied before falling back, rising in sterling terms but falling in US dollars as the dollar strengthened. The world's 'reserve currency' has seen reasonably significant moves against other currencies this year as the US Federal Reserve reduced interest rates and the odds shifted on the outcome of the US presidential election. This has added some further volatility to the market which continues to be driven by the fortunes of information technology and financial companies. The financial services companies within the portfolio found favour in the month with derivatives exchanges CME Group and Deutsche Börse posting solid organic revenue growth in the third quarter of the year. For the fund more broadly, third quarter revenue growth is showing a slight slowdown from the first half of the year. With 62% of the portfolio having reported, organic revenue growth is averaging +4% as a median, down from +5% in the second quarter. The slowdown has been largely led by consumer goods firms in the fund, principally due to consumption in China. This meant that those businesses with the greatest exposure to the country saw a negative share price reaction, notably LVMH, L'Oréal and Pernod Ricard. These businesses are globally diversified and some fared better than others; L'Oréal still grew its revenues for example. Looking to the future, the company noted that they expect global cosmetics growth to return to pre-Covid levels in the next year, but with that growth redistributed somewhat from China towards Europe and North America. We think that the consumer firms in the portfolio will continue to generate high levels of return on capital and growing cash flow over time. While we are having to exercise some patience whilst negative sentiment persists, they look increasingly attractively valued along with sectors that make up the bulk of the portfolio, predominantly health care, business service and, selectively, information technology companies.

ENVIRONMENTAL, SOCIAL AND GOVERNANCE (ESG)

We believe that delivering real, durable returns over the long term can be best achieved by integrating environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors into our risk management framework as this ensures that all long-term risks are monitored and managed on an ongoing basis. In addition to reviewing ESG factors when making investment decisions, we engage with portfolio companies on a range of ESG issues (for example greenhouse gas emission reduction). However, please note that the fund does not have a sustainability objective.

SAWAN WADHWA

Head of Stewardship

Integration into the investment process

We independently analyse and vote on all resolutions at every AGM of an investee company. The voting of resolutions followed by active engagement is the formal mechanism by which we believe we can effect change and express opinion on corporate matters. We vote against the recommendations of management where there is a considered reason for doing so in relation to the environmental characteristic promoted eg if remuneration policies did not assess management on managing ESG-related risks within the company's value chain. When we vote against a management recommendation, our policy requires us to write to the company explaining why and build the conversation into an engagement plan.
