MANAGER COMMENTARY

September saw the summer market rally erased, as equity prices continued to decline from their mid-August peak. While Evenlode Global Opportunities also declined, the fund continued to outperform both its comparator benchmark, the MSCI World Index, and its EAA Sector peer group. The wider economic outlook remains afflicted by the continued war in Ukraine, potential energy disruption in Europe, and inflation concerns. Speculation over the responses of central banks has increased market volatility over the past few months and further to this, the UK government's September 'fiscal event' contributed to a sharp decline in sterling. We firmly believe that the long-term effects of developed-market currency movements will be dwarfed by company performance in driving fund returns and as such, our efforts remain focused on identifying businesses with durable competitive advantages and opportunities to reinvest for long-term growth.

The technology sector has been notably weak year-to-date and continued to constrain absolute returns in September. Mastercard, Microsoft, and Alphabet were all among the largest negative contributors. All three benefit from compounding network effects and growing long-term technology spend and our valuation models already bake in a degree of conservatism in future growth rates, giving us confidence to retain these as our largest positions. The weakest contributor was Adobe, the design software supplier, that announced the $20bn acquisition of Figma, a provider of collaborative product design software. The overlap in clients is surprisingly low (at 33%) and allows an expansion of Adobe's addressable market. Figma will boost growth, but the price paid is high and there is pressure on management to demonstrate a suitable return on the outlay; we have accordingly reflected this in our risk framework.

As ever, we would like to thank all our investors for their trust and backing, and we continue to focus our efforts on preserving and growing your capital.

Integration into the investment process

To start Evenlode's net zero journey, we prioritised a set of portfolio companies for engagement in 2022 and beyond. In keeping with our engagement goal of 100% of our financed emissions in material sectors to be aligned, achieving net zero or under direct or collective engagement, we executed our engagement plan this quarter. We are pleased to say that we have reached our 2022 target. We have engaged with 63 companies who are currently either not aligned to 1.5°C, committed to align to 1.5°C and aligning to net zero. Generally, we are expecting companies in material sectors to move up one alignment category within 12 months of engagement. If they do not achieve the engagement objectives set within this time frame, we will escalate via voting and collective action on a case-by-case basis.

Our ongoing commitment

Evenlode Investment Management became a signatory to the United Nations Principles for Responsible Investment (UNPRI) in 2018. By becoming signatories, we commit to implementing these principles and incorporating environmental, social and governance factors into our investment process to help enhance returns and better manage risk for our clients.
